Green Card - A Smart Investment

A Green Card is a permanent visa issued to a qualified applicant and his/her entire family.

A Green Card is useful because it allows the holder to enter the country anytime; seek work with anyone for anytime without needing a sponsor; do business if he wants; the children can attend public schools free of cost; new mothers get maternity benefits and access to the best of medical facilities for free.

A Green Card is normally issued by developed countries like the USA, Canada, UK, Australia, New Zealand because they want to attract skills or populate areas they naturally can't.

Holding a Green Card means that the person is a Permanent Resident, not a citizen yet. Green Card holders become eligible to apply for citizenship normally after a period of stay, say 3-5 years. With the Government of India bringing out the Dual Citizenship, one can now hold the citizenship of 2 countries.

A Green Card is a good investment for anyone. It is as good as gold. Actually even better!

A Green Card investment for your family could cost between Rs.1.0 to Rs.2.0 lacs.

Consider this: How much gold can Rs.2.0 lacs buy? It buys a mere 15 grams or so. At the end of 5 years it may be worth Rs.3.0 lacs and no more.

Rs.2.0 lacs cannot buy any real estate.

A Fixed Deposit gives no more than 10% and that gets eaten away by the 10% inflation.

Investing in stocks or mutual funds is too risky and even if it gave a 100% return, you will have Rs.2.0 lacs in 5 years and owe 30% in taxes.

A Rs.2.0 lacs investment in a Green Card will buy you a permanent visa not only for you but also your entire family - for a lifetime. Your next generation will also be able to use the benefits of the visa.

So apply for this valuable asset while you are eligible.

Think about it

- You may not qualify for a temporary visit visa but may qualify for a permanent visa! Permanent visas are usually points based and have defined eligibility criteria, temporary visas are based on the discretion of the consulate officer.
- In most cases, there is no interview. If you are eligible, you file your documents and receive your visa a few months later.
- Immigration laws keeps changing each year. Apply when you are eligible or else the laws change and you wont be eligible when you want to apply.
- Isn't it fortunate that the best and richest English speaking countries in the world offer an immigration program? India, despite our growth rate, will not have the quality of life they currently have - at least not in our lifetime.
- Immigrating to a country allows you to stay long enough to experience overseas life to the fullest. Staying overseas develops you as a person, your career, business and your family like no other experience can.
- You will never regret having invested in a Green Card. You will never regret having the freedom & flexibility to travel & work – anytime you want - in the US, UK, Australia, Canada or New Zealand without the need to apply for a visa.
- Investing in a Green Card is cheaper than investing in a local club membership or a time-share program. With a green card, you and your family get a membership to the best countries in the world.

FAQs

Who is eligible to apply for a green card?

A graduate or a diploma holder with 2-4 years of experience is eligible to apply. Most professionals qualify.

Whom can I include in my application?

You can include your spouse and children on your application. After you become a citizen you can sponsor your parents, siblings and other immediate relatives.

What is the cost to obtain a green card?

This varies for each country and also depends on the size of your family. The cost for you and your family to obtain a green card will be approximately 1-2 lakhs.

How easy is to apply for a green card?

The process is usually a simple 2 stage process, which requires that you provide evidence of education, work experience, settlement funds and proficiency in English.

A good immigration consultant will be able to simplify the process and make it easier.

Am I required to attend an interview to obtain the green card?

Most countries do not ask for an interview. Decisions are based on documents alone.

Once my visa is granted, when do I have to enter the country?

The PR visa usually comes with 3-5 year validity. You can relocate anytime within that period, after you have made your initial entry. Initial entry should be made within 6 months to a year; it will be stated in the visa grant letter.

I am confused. I hear conflicting things from my friends - some say the job market is still great for my profile and I should have no problem finding a job, other say at the moment all the countries which offer Green Cards are in recession. Why should I apply now?

It takes between 1-3 years to get a Green Card and by the time you get your Green Card in India the recession would have ended. The idea of applying for a Green Card need not be immediate. You are confusing it with a work permit. In a work permit, your sponsor will determine when you enter the country and whether you are needed or not. This is not so in a Green Card. Here you have the option to decide when or whether to go. Also, most green cards are valid for a minimum period of 3 years. You can keep the visa stamped on your passport and enter the country anytime within this period.

And with regard to the job market, getting a job is also dependent on your profile, your work experience & other factors.

My experience is Indian only. How will I find a job when I get there?

You can always transfer your skills to a new culture and country if you are confident of your expertise, your English and people skills. In addition, job search is an art and science in itself. Job Search is where you find the right employer (this involves a good job search skills); knowing how to apply (this involves having an international resume that presents your professional abilities well) and knowing how to take an interview and negotiating a package. Y-Axis has a specialized Job Search Service that assists professionals who are looking to work overseas. You can apply for jobs while you are in India itself!

Are there any employment restrictions on a green card?

There are no employment restrictions. You can get into employment you chose with any employer at any time. You can hold multiple jobs too. You can also choose to be self-employed. The same applies to your spouse.

While I am on a green card, can I invest?

Yes. You have the same rights as any resident or citizen.

Can I or my spouse study on a green card?

You and your spouse can enroll for any course. The best part of studying on a green card is that you pay only pay 50% of the fee as opposed to the fee an international student pays.

What are the benefits of holding a green card?

The benefits are many – you get free medical facilities for you and your family, your children can study for free in the public schools, and enjoy unemployment benefits and social security benefits.

You can enjoy visa unrestricted travel to any of the developed countries, once you get your citizenship.
